Your Rights

If you do not agree with a decision Centrelink has made:

- Contact us so we can explain the decision and change it if appropriate (this step is optional).
- Contact us and ask for an independent Authorised Review Officer to look at your case.
- Go to the Social Security Appeals Tribunal if you disagree with the Authorised Review Officer's decision.
- Go to the Administrative Appeals Tribunal if you disagree with the Social Security Appeals Tribunal's decision.

All of the above are free of charge.

Most decisions in relation to the Northern Territory Income Management measure are not able to be reviewed by the Social Security Appeals Tribunal.

Important: If you wish to appeal a decision, contact Centrelink as soon as possible. If you do not ask for a review within 13 weeks of being notified of the decision, you may not receive your full entitlement if the decision is changed.

If your payment has been stopped for an eight week non-payment period, your payment may, in some cases, continue while the decision is being reviewed. To see if this applies to you, you need to ask whether you will be able to get 'payment pending review' at the time you ask for the decision to be reviewed.

Data Matching

Information provided by you to Centrelink may be used for data matching with other government agencies to detect and prevent incorrect payments and fraud.

Taxation

Newstart Allowance, like wages and salaries is part of your taxable income. If tax is not deducted from your payment, and your total income is over the tax threshold, you may have to pay tax in a lump sum at the end of the financial year. The Tax Office can tell you how much this may be. You can ask us to take tax out of your payments at any time.
